Sugar of heat in that area. Stopping the formation of prostaglandins. It does this by stopping the formation of prostaglandins.

• Conditions affecting the throat or mouth including:

What this medicine does

Benzydamine is a group of medicines called non-steroidal anti-inflammatory (NSAID) drugs. It is used to treat pain and inflammation (redness, swelling and a feeling of heat) in the throat or mouth.

Mouthwash throughout the rest of the leaflet) is used for:

What Benzydamine Mouthwash is and why it is used for

Benzydamine 0.15% w/v Mouthwash (called Benzydamine Mouthwash throughout) is used to treat:

1. What Benzydamine Mouthwash is and what it is used for

Benzydamine Hydrochloride

Benzydamine 0.15% w/v Mouthwash

6. Contents of the pack and other information

If you have any further questions on the use of this medicine, ask your doctor, dentist or pharmacist.

3. How to use Benzydamine Mouthwash

• Using the measuring cup provided pour out 15 ml of the mouthwash (up to the top mark on the cup saying 15 ml). When diluting the mouthwash (up to the top mark on the cup saying 15 ml), except if your doctor or dentist tells you to.

• If you get any side effects, talk to your doctor, dentist or pharmacist. This includes any possible side effects not listed in this leaflet. See section 4.

• The other ingredients are glycerol, polyvinyl alcohol, methyl parahydroxybenzoate, ethanol and propylene glycol.

• The mouthwash should generally be used undiluted, but if you feel at all uncomfortable, you can dilute the mouthwash with water. You can dilute it with 2 parts mouthwash to 1 part water. If you feel at all uncomfortable, you may dilute it with water. You may dilute the mouthwash with water if you find the taste is too strong. You should avoid doing this for more than a few days at a time. When diluting the mouthwash, you may wish to dilute it with water to make it less strong. When diluting the mouthwash, you may wish to dilute it with water to make it less strong.

• Do not use double the amount of mouthwash to make the mouthwash stronger.

• Do not use Benzydamine Mouthwash if:

4. Possible side effects

Like all medicines, this medicine can cause side effects, although not everybody gets them. Side effects are generally minor.

• Methyl parahydroxybenzoate - this may cause allergic reactions (possibly delayed).

• Propylene glycol – this may cause skin irritation.

• The mouthwash may cause a temporary burning or stinging in the throat or mouth of individuals who are hypersensitive to benzydamine.

• Any other medicines you take, have taken, or are going to take.

• This medicine should not be used in the throat or mouth of children aged 12 years or under.

• Women who are pregnant or breastfeeding.

• If you have any side effects, talk to your doctor, dentist or pharmacist. This includes any possible side effects not listed in this leaflet. See section 4.

• Do not use more Benzydamine Mouthwash than you should.

• If you use too much Benzydamine Mouthwash or if you accidentally swallow it, contact your doctor, dentist or pharmacist.

• If you use more Benzydamine Mouthwash than you should

• You should not use Benzydamine Mouthwash:

• If you feel at all uncomfortable, you may dilute it with water.

• Use the measuring cup after each use and keep it safe for your next dose.

• If you get any side effects, talk to your doctor, dentist or pharmacist.

• To help you save on the cost of this medicine, ask your pharmacist how to throw away medicines you no longer use. These measures will help protect the environment.

• If you have any further questions on the use of this medicine, ask your doctor, dentist or pharmacist.

• If you get any side effects, talk to your doctor, dentist or pharmacist. This includes any possible side effects not listed in this leaflet. See section 4.

• Methyl parahydroxybenzoate - this may cause allergic reactions (possibly delayed).

• Propylene glycol – this may cause skin irritation.

• The other ingredients are glycerol, polyvinyl alcohol, methyl parahydroxybenzoate, ethanol and propylene glycol.

• The mouthwash can cause side effects, although not everybody gets them. Side effects are generally minor.

• If you have any side effects, talk to your doctor, dentist or pharmacist. This includes any possible side effects not listed in this leaflet. See section 4.

• Do not use more Benzydamine Mouthwash than you should.

• If you use too much Benzydamine Mouthwash or if you accidentally swallow it, contact your doctor, dentist or pharmacist.

• If you take any other medicines, consult your doctor, dentist or pharmacist before using Benzydamine Mouthwash.

• Do not use more Benzydamine Mouthwash than you should

• You should not use Benzydamine Mouthwash:

• If you get any side effects, talk to your doctor, dentist or pharmacist.

• To help you save on the cost of this medicine, ask your pharmacist how to throw away medicines you no longer use. These measures will help protect the environment.

• If you have any side effects, talk to your doctor, dentist or pharmacist. This includes any possible side effects not listed in this leaflet. See section 4.

• Do not use more Benzydamine Mouthwash than you should.